4 WAYS TO FOSTER HEALTHY EMOTIONAL DEVELOPMENT

Allowing and encouraging children to express their feelings — both positive and negative — supports their emotional development. Children ages 3-5 have the capacity to label and discuss their emotions; they just need a safe and open environment to do so!

1.

Your child should know their thoughts, feelings, and efforts matter.

Let them know you're listening when they share their thoughts and feelings.

Help your child use words to describe feelings.

You might say, "I can tell you're feeling very mad and frustrated. Would you like to tell me why you feel this way?"

2.

Acknowledge difficult feelings and give your child strategies to respond to them.

Help your child know that it's okay to have strong feelings and that you are there to help manage those feelings in a positive way. Each child is unique — one child may want to have a conversation while another may need a hug or deep breaths to cool down.

4.

Encourage your child to practice thinking about how others feel.

When reading a story together, ask your child to imagine they are the different characters and to guess how they might be feeling, and why.
