A Window into the Human Experience

Eileen Rudnick's "The Glass Between Us" is a captivating novel that explores the complexities of identity, privilege, and prejudice through the lives of three distinct women: Sera, from a wealthy family; Lena, a struggling single mother; and Carmen, a young woman of color. As their paths intertwine, they confront the societal barriers that divide them and ultimately challenge the very foundations of their own beliefs.

Sera: The Face of Privilege

Sera, an affluent young woman, has always taken her privileged life for granted. However, a chance encounter with Lena forces her to confront the inequalities that exist in their society. As she witnesses Lena's struggles firsthand, Sera begins to question her own role in perpetuating these disparities.

Lena: The Weight of Responsibility

Lena, a single mother working two jobs to make ends meet, is constantly faced with the challenges of poverty. Her experiences with racism and classism have shaped her worldview, and she is determined to break the cycle for her daughter. Lena's interactions with Sera and Carmen reveal the deep-rooted biases that permeate society.

Carmen: The Power of Resilience

Carmen, a young woman of color, has faced discrimination and prejudice throughout her life. Despite these challenges, she remains resilient and determined to make a difference in the world. Her perspective on identity and social justice challenges the assumptions of Sera and Lena, forcing them to rethink their own understanding of the world.
